Given to you by _____

Find out what your family would be missing

A will or a power of attorney only helps if your family can find it and use it. Eight quick questions show where the gaps are.

Take the free readiness check

It takes about two minutes. You don't need an account. Point your phone's camera at the code, or type this address.
planbeforeyoudie.app/tomorrow-test

Or check these off here

- [ ] Does anyone besides you know where your original will is?
- [ ] If you couldn't make decisions tomorrow, does your bank already have your power of attorney on file?
- [ ] Could your doctors find your health care proxy or advance directive today?
- [ ] Can Medicare talk to someone you choose about your claims?
- [ ] If you died, could someone you trust request your photos and files through Apple Legacy Contact or Google Inactive Account Manager?
- [ ] Does someone you trust have emergency access to your password manager?
- [ ] Have you named a trusted contact at each brokerage where you have an account?
- [ ] Have you told Social Security who should manage your benefits if you ever can't?

Then fix what's missing

1. Print the free starter binder. Twelve pages for your people, papers, account locations and wishes, at planbeforeyoudie.app/printables/starter-binder.
2. Show one person where you keep it. Never write passwords or account numbers in it.
3. Talk with a lawyer in your state if a legal paper is missing or out of date.

If you want help setting it all up

Plan Before You Die also sells a paid plan. It guides you through official routes like the Medicare authorization, then the people you choose practice their first steps in a Family Drill. Prices are at planbeforeyoudie.app/pricing. The check and the binder stay free either way.

We don't pay whoever gave you this sheet, and we never share your plan with them. Plan Before You Die is software. Our team never opens your documents, letters or guides. It's not a substitute for a lawyer. This sheet is general information for families in the United States, not legal advice. hello@planbeforeyoudie.app